Looking back over the passage of speeding, flashing years at Central High, our memories are mixed. There have been moments so joyful, so exciting, that they will live with us always. Here at Central we learned the beginnings of communications by searching and finding new friends, new relationships, new discoveries, new perceptions and new understandings of ourselves in relation to the outside world.

The search begins early and for some it bears little fruit until the senior year. For others who fling themselves into social and political life of the school, it may begin early. We test ourselves in class council elections, debate, the newspaper, and even athletics. We want to know who we are. We want the reflection of meas-

By straight Acing our way through school we hope to say that we are worthy, because we understand the concepts that adults hold so high as valuable. For others, sadly, like Jr. High 7th grader, who valiantly puffs the first cigarette to prove he is grown up, just like the bigger kids, his only recognition comes with anti-social, belligerent, aggressive behavior. themselves out. They are recognized. They do exist, but they operate only as poles, that the rest of us do not emulate or copy. Strangely, although teachers, grades are all important. They are not as important as our friends. Some will last a life-time: some will last only till the end of our high school life. Then our paths extend and go in different directions. towards college, some towards technical schools, and other of us will just lay around trying to find ourselves.

Many of our friends we will never see again, as their lives vear off away from ours. Others will stay in Kalamazoo to be close to us as long as we live.

Many of our friendships were made in these classrooms here at Central. The heated discussions on Hemingway or Thoreau in College English made us aware of our friend's intensity. Sharing the experiences of our lives in Creative Writing made us feel that we are not so alone . . . that others feel as we do. Sharing the fun of sports and gym class, all are memories that bind us together, because this is our youth and what we did here at Central was important in forming who we will be in the years to come.

When someone asks us where we go to school, we say "Kalamazoo Central" and listen to the "oohs" and "aahs," and we smile to ourselves. We know that our rough and tough school is really a "cream-puff," but we like to give the image that we fight our way from class to class. It's sort of fun. Because Central High is "never too little to forget."

"Never too little to forget" — That's the rookies. Our tenth graders start out wide-eyed, wandering aimlessly through the halls, smiling vacantly at the seniors, and usually forgetting their locker combination, their books to class, and their busses after school. They are "little" in experience, but big on inquisitiveness. Throughout the year they ask us questions — "What courses to take?", "What teachers to avoid", "How much is the yearbook?" Tenth grade is tough, not so much academically, but socially. Trying to make new friends, trying to understand how to study, trying to just put it together. Slowly memories are starting to build — so that next year when they return they will be knowledgeable, smooth, sophisticated juniors.

Fine Arts

"Never Too Little To Forget" . . . that the essence of life is sensitivity, and awareness of that which is creative, and beautiful around us. Music, Art, and mature writing are expressions of this essence. Few satisfactions in life equal of feeling of well-being and contentment of being a part of and into the singing a choir masterpiece, or playing orchestral music. What we create is what we are. What we create with our hands, our minds and our voices becomes ourselves, and the educational process that fosters these arts makes a major contribution to our culture and community as a whole. In the end we all made stronger, our lives richer and more meaningful.

MADRIGAL DINNER

The festival of song and eating that makes up the Madrigal dinner is one of the few totally enjoyable festive music occasions of the year. A combination of song and warm conversation takes the guests back in time to a simpler more pastoral age, when life was a little easier, and a wee bit less hectic. To escape into the music and food of such an age is indeed fun and enjoyable.

The Choir and Fred Colgren have started a tradition that should go on and on. And hopefully, from the comments of the parents and guests, we all hope it will.

. . . Spices and Song

The Central High Madrigal Dinner began back in 1975. The idea was created to offer the community a night of selected Madrigal music, spices, dinner and the presence of some of the most musically creative young people in Western Michigan. It is a tradition steeped in costumes, fun and revelry. Fred Colgren has lead the choir to some of most exquisite musical renditions of early English music heard in our area. Special soloists for the evening were Marlena Yarger, Janlee Rothman, Paul Humiston, Eric Richter, Chris Hahn, Stephanie Smith, Jim Bowers, and Gretchen Lowry. The evening was delightful and the entire Central High Community look to next year for the next Madrigal Festivities.

GRADUATION '79

For the seniors, this is what it is all about. The end of a long journey of twelve years of classes, work, fun and living with friends. It all comes together on a lovely warm night in June. It is a beginning and an end. It is a night that will be remembered forever. Graduation. When we walk up to the President of the Board of Education and receive the diploma, smile and walk briskly away, we will walk away and into a new part of our lives.

Say It With Music

There are times when music can say more and produce more emotion than words ever could. Just a few notes can create a new mood. And a few more can make you feel entirely different. Words can be precise and clear, and well chosen words have great strength. With the actors creating the story on stage, and the orchestra setting the mood, this musical, The Pajama Game, became powerful. The Kalamazoo Central Orchestra made sure that The Pajama Game was a success. The combined talents of every member produced a show to be proud of.

Hushed whispers ran back and forth across the stage. This was it. "Actors in places." The tightness in my stomach grew to a little knot of tension. "Good luck" and "break a leg" rang through my head.

Eight weeks previous to this night we were all here on this same stage. Auditions were nerve wracking and a strain on friendships. "Julie is bucking for lead." "He isn't gonna get that part, so why try?" The same songs heard repeatedly all night. The competition was tough. There was so much talent and so few parts.

A sleepless night. Then the white paper taped on the door of room 444. It meant Mr. Ettwein as director, Mr. Colgren as vocal director and Mrs. Herm as the choreographer had made their decisions. A group quickly assembled. The white sheet held the expected and the unexpected. Disappointed and pleased faces could be seen through the crowd. My name was on the list. I was staring blankly at the strange name of my character, trying to decide how I felt about it. Stunned I guess.

"Two minutes till curtain," brought me back to the present. I was seated behind an old sewing machine in the "Sleep Tite Pajama Factory." The closeness of the cast and crew around me had developed through long, tiring rehearsals. Each rehearsal was worth it to produce the show we were about to do.

Back stage was dark, but we'd run through this so many times that we knew exactly what was what and where. The curtain was going up. The songs started reeling through my head, Mr. Colgren telling us to put the right accents on the words. Dance steps I'd run through a hundred times with Mrs. Hern were being double checked in my head. Lines were forgotten but would soon return. I hoped.

The audience in front of us. So receptive. The electricity was transferred from us to them and back again. "Enthusiastic," summed up the performance. Bright costumes and smiling faces covered with stage make-up. There were no problems. Only the wish that we could do it all again.

As the curtain dropped, I felt an empty feeling. A big "up" was finally over. But the show would go on. The memories of "The Pajama Game" were engraved deep in our minds and the friendships deep in our hearts. It would never really be over.

FINE ARTS COLLAGE

The Fine Arts includes all the Creative Arts including painting, photography, choir singing, orchestra, and just about any creative expression where the sensitivity of man is expanded through artistic expression.

Whether it be in the Art Class painting and exploring the different mediums of water-colors or oils, or standing on the risers at Chenery Auditorium singing a Requiem Mass, we find ourselves and our lives enriched and fulfilled by the experience.

Even photography and the Graphic Arts offers opportunities for artistic expression. Creating a publication for public distribution exacts from students the same precision and sensitivity for the written word, as the painter's brush of oil on canvas. The finest that can be found in mankind can be explored in all the Fine Arts.

MAROON & WHITE REVIEW

On the evening of the 12th of May, 1979, we all sat talking and waiting expectantly in our seats at Chenery Auditorium for the fifth annual celebration of song, dance and comedy called the Maroon and White Review. The lights dimmed. With the faint notes of Yankee Doodle rising in the background the evening began. Students who contributed to the program were Kelly Cavender, Eric Haupt, Eric Richter, Andy Smith, Paul Warnike, Nathan Rank, Mike Wong, Lori Nelson, Janlee Rothman, Mark Bradfield, Mark Clark, Sue Cooke, Kathy Goodwin, Paul Humistan, David Burns, Bob Ecklebecker and host of now graduated seniors. Central's spring night of talent ended with spirit, and musical fire. Here's hoping that next spring the Maroon and White Review will return to Central High School.

The Central High Marching Band strutts its stuff at every home football game all season long. Under the able direction of Jerome Mandl, the band has become one of the flashiest, most disciplined bands in our area. The members of the band work hard each day from the end of school until well after 4:00 p.m. They create stationary and moving patterns to please the fans. The band itself is musically advanced and their spirit is one of the supportive girders to the entire fall academic and music program. Thanks to the Central High Marching Band, Western Michigan's finest.

SPRING CHOIR CONCERT

The lights are on. Mr. Colgren with a big grin on his face, tells us to smile and sing loud. We walk out onto the risers. The audience starts to applaud. Then Mr. Colgren and the accompianist walk on. The crowd is quiet. The signal is given to Janlee and she begins to play. All the fears I had of forgetting the music or the notes are gone. My mouth is dry; but I manage to get the words out. I begin to relax after the first song is over and before I know it we are done. Mr. Colgren turns around and bows. He then turns to us, as we walk off stage the audience is still clapping.

Practice . . . Practice . . . Practice

The Kalamazoo Central High School Band does that and more. Everyday during the fall the band trudges out to the parking lot south of the school, and there under the leadership of Jerome Mandl it goes through all the intricate and difficult formations and patterns that will eventually make up the half time show at the football games. To the spectator in the stands it all looks so easy, so effortless. But it's not. A lot of cussing and prodding goes on unseen from the eyes of the football spectators to make the show all come out right the night of the game.

Not only must the patterns be right, but the music that goes along with it has to be memorized and played as they march. Although the uniforms are red and flashy, they are not worn without work, discipline and diligence.

Every band member has earned the right to wear the Red and White, and those of us in Student Body who know of their work and dedication are proud of them. Thank-you Band for a job well done.

Harvey: The Fall Drama, 1979

Harvey

This "old chestnut" of a drama has been played with vigor at more high schools than, perhaps, any other drama. It tells the delightful tale of a curious old man, who has a mythical six foot white rabbit for a friend, and how everyone he knows thinks he's crazy and tries to get him put into a mental hospital. It's a warm, humorous and delightful drama, which is one of the reasons it has been done in high school theatre over the years. Kalamazoo Central High this fall, carried on the tradition. The play was delightfully presented and staged under the able direction of Joan Garneau and her student assistants. Congratulations to the entire cast.

There is nothing more delightful and pleasant to listen to than Christmas in song. Fred Colgren's Central High Choir, Chorus and Chorale provided such an experience on the 18th of December, 1979 at Old Central's Chenery Auditorium. The evening's music included madrigals, choruses, ballads and songs of the season. Central's choir is fast becoming known throughout the state for its quality music, and spirited interpretations. This year's Christmas Concert was ample illustration of the choir's newly gained musical maturity.

During the Christmas season, the Kalamazoo Central Orchestra traditionally puts a lovely warm evening of Christmas music for the delight of the Central High Community at the venerable and charming Chenery Auditorium. The violins and strings never sounded more professional, and the lucidity and clarity of the orchestra was enthralling. Central High's music department has always prided itself on strong musical tradition and discipline. Those qualities came through to warm everyone who attended the concert. It was one more sparkling diamond in a lovely Christmas season.

Juniors

"Never Too Little To Forget . . . the junior year when we found ourselves and began to control our own destiny here at Central High. We became the first string in school life. We took over the newspaper, the forensics team, the football team, the student government, and made our imprint on how the school is run. The juniors are in the middle and very comfortable. The pressures of college applications, job hunting and all of the rest of the desperation of the Seniors is not here yet . . . and in their place is the status of letter jackets and school life. Here's to the juniors who say "Never . . . too Little to Forget," because high school seems to go on forever.

SEEING OURSELVES GROW

The Kalamazoo Central High Day Care Center under the direction of Barb White allows students to not only learn how the small child grows and matures, but actually gives students ways to live, participate and teach small children. Each student not only studies his schoolwork, but watches, studies and takes care of small children in life situations. Such an experience is indeed an education. For many students, the lessons learned through working with and observing these small pre-school children go a long way towards setting goals for students in teaching, child-care, nursing, and personality growth studies. There isn't a better class in the school to learn by doing, than Mrs. White's Day Care Center.

Care Center.

Clubs

"Never Too Little To Forget . . . the clubs and activities that we took part in here at Central. This is where we have built our friendships, some of which will last a lifetime. Here in the clubs and social life stemming from them, we have learned the social graces of how to get along with adults and our peers. Without the clubs; without the common goals; without the common interests, there would be all too little, and most of it would be quickly forgotten. So here's to the clubs that give us skills and memories, so that each one will never be too little to forget.

Co-operative Education

The Central High Co-op Programs have evolved and developed over the past ten years at Central High. The major objectives of these programs is to introduce high school students to the commercial, industrial and business community of Kalamazoo, and to obtain on the job experience, while at the same time, continue their high school education.

Most of the programs are designed for seniors, who have most of their academic work behind them, and are looking forward to working and being a part of the business community of Kalamazoo.

This is a program that really meets the needs of both our students and our business community. Central High is proud to have co-operative education in our school community.

The Councils

The sophomore, junior and senior class councils at Central High are the legislative bodies that run and maintain the direction of student activities at the school. All student projects for each class is organized, set up, and implemented through the councils. The projects range from the social (the building of the floats) to the altruistic, (The Bread Lift). Each project has to be put together carefully, and carried out by the council utilizing as many of the total student body as possible. The success or failure of just about every student activity rests in the hands of the individual class councils, and that is why they are so important to the internal workings of the school.

German Club

"Sehr Gut" is the language of our German Club. Ms. Hanka, the German Students of all levels join together in this club to benefit by a cultural exchange. The president of this club is Greg Bonnes. Many of the students attended the Octoberfest, a unique experience. There is a prospective candy sale next semester to be held by the German Club. In addition plans are made each year for the annual Christmas Dinner, and the spring trip to a place which illustrates German culture and life. The German Club carries on the best of the German traditions at Central High.

Spanish Club

Each Spanish class has its own program with students volunteering to plan the meetings. Occasionally all the classes meet for a special program in the Media Center. Present Central students and recent graduates who have spent some time in a Spanish-speaking country have presented slide shows, among them are Ann Hilberry, Jim Porter, Gayle Rolfe, Jane Wesolowski, and Laura Garrison. Dr. Marigene Arnold of Kalamazoo College presented a slide show of religious festivals in Mexico. One class had lunch at Mi-Rauchito in Kalamazoo last year. These are typical Spanish Club activities.

French Club

The French Club is the largest language club in the school. The hi-lights of their year is their Christmas French Dinner and their end of the year French Festival. Many of the club toured Europe last summer and many more plan to go this summer. The President of this year's club is Su Anderson, and the Sec., Treasurer is Lynn Chandler. Combining the learning of French and then using it in our active lives is one of the major goals of the club. The French Club seems to be doing just that.

Student Government

Child Care and Pre-School Children

Barb White's Child Care classes introduce students to the fascinating world of preschool children; their needs and lives. The education our students receive is how small children mature and grow is incredibly exciting. Much of their growth takes place right before the students eyes, as they help the youngsters search, and problem-solve in the huge, new and exciting world of grown-ups and nature. The Child-care classes are some of the most stimulating classes in the school, and we are happy to have this educational project at Central High.

Upward Bound

For six weeks every summer at Western Michigan University, minority students from all over Southwestern Michigan gather on the campus to learn how they can better prepare themselves for the academic life of college. Each summer a group of students represent Kalamazoo Central in this program. The program is designed individually for each student, and it really helps students get set for both high school and college.

Audio-Visual Staff

Mrs. Bryant, head of the audio-visual department at Central, sums up the students, who work with her in the A-V room by stating "They're all good kids." She likes for the students in the A-V department to remain with her for the three years they are at Central, so they can gain an in depth knowledge of the A-V department and how it operates. Besides taking care of the audio-visual equipment and running the Xerox copying machine, her "kids" do anything in the line of production for the school.

Attendance Staff

This group of students is necessary for keeping track of who is in the school and who isn't. Their specific duties are to sign students in and out, type up a list of all student absences each certain day, answer phones and file excuses.

Media Center Staff

The Media Center Staff is very important in running a smooth and efficient library. These students sign books in and out, help with inventory, stack and return books to their correct locations and generally support the library staff in their daily work. They are some of the most courteous and helpful students in the school. Mr. Clysdale, our Head Media Specialist, enjoys working with the students, and likes having them working the library for more than one year. Our Media is one of the best equipped and most comprehensive in the state, and our student staff makes it go.

Spring Sports

When the mud comes, that's when Spring sports break out. Spring Sports are really fun, because they not only give a chance to get rid of some of our aggressions, but they mark the beginning of a new year. They signal warm days to come. They make us want to climb out of our classrooms and run, bask and play, just like when we were in grade school. Spring: the sounds of bats cracking, the patter of feet on the track, and the thump of rackets on the courts. These sports are not just competition. They are festival. Welcome . . . welcome . . . welcome . . . so that there will "Never be too little to forget."

MEN'S TRACK

This Year's Maroon Giant Track squad displayed an abundance of talent as evidenced by a first place at the Jackson Northwest Relays, second at the Greater Kalamazoo and Regional Meets and a repeat third in the big eight Conference. Inexperienced, was the key word however as Coach Long and his staff worked to rebuild for the loss of graduating seniors. By the end of the season much of the inexperience had vanished as evidenced by the improvement performance of this year's squad. In thirteen of sixteen events, distances or times were better over those of last year's squad. One of those was the outstanding mile relay team of Steve Wimbley, Steve Hackly, Hugh Cooney, and Kevin Wright whose 3:21.9 in the state meet was a new school record. In addition to that, first year senior Steve Wimbley broke a twenty five year old school record by posting a 49.5 in the 440 yd dash. Those are only a few of the many outstanding efforts Coach Long termed one of the hardest working squads he's ever had. If the spirit, enthusiasm and hard work carries over to next year's squad, Central will be tough in the big eight conference.

Women's Softball

The 1979 Women's Softball Team had the finest season in the history of softball at Central High School. They even made it to the State Regional Softball Tournament for the first time in the history of the school. The 22 and 3 season was the best ever. Under their new and able Coaches, Terry Powers and Sue Schoolmaster, the team got better and better as the season went on. The seniors for the 1980 team hope to carry on the tradition: Karla Berry, Becky Cain, Connie Guthrie, Hettie Hager, Jana Marsh, Jane Newton, Kelly Jo Rowekamp, and Laurie Warnicke. Good Luck in the 1980 Campaign. May the Spring be as fruitful as the fantastic Spring of 1979.

Women's Softball

Spirit and fire were together on the Softball Team this Spring. With the fantastic pitching of Beth Belleville, and the great hitting of Kelly Jo Rowekamp, Laurie Warnicke, and Jane Newton, the team beat team after team. The most enjoyable victories were over Portage Northern, and Portage Central for First Place in the Great Kalamazoo Area Championship. They finally bowed out to a strong Grand Ledge Team in the State Regionals. It was one great season and Terry Powers and Sue Schoolmaster are looking forward to another great year in 1980.

Women's Track

An end to a dynasty in Women's track occurred this year with Kalamazoo Central Woman's track team's first dual meet loss in six years to crosstown rival Loy Norrix.

The Women's track team overcame this setback by winning the Greater-Kalamazoo meet and placing second behind Loy Norrix in the Big-8 Conference meet.

Georgia Hall, the head women's track coach, has high regards for the returning juniors and sophomores. She also feels that she will have sufficient depth resulting from a good crop of incoming freshmen.

Mrs. Hall's returning juniors, now seniors consist of Molly Adams, Robin Dooley, Liz Finchem, Cherryl Gill, Barb Hoyle, Pam Huber, Angie Jackson, Lynn Klok, Lori Ann Ledbetter, Cindy Marvin, Lisa Merlo, Alyson Parham, Kelly Rowekamp, Felicia Summers, Yolanda Wilson, Nancy Wooten, and Molly Young.

Lack of depth in the distance events concerns Coach Hall. "Only four girls were out for cross-country this fall. We need to have more girls involved in this sport."

Mrs. Hall is looking forward to another winning season. Let's hope they can build a new streak of victories.

Women's Golf

Smack! The golf ball soars out over the course and the Women's Golf Team is on their way to another successful season. The ladies under the able direction of Peg Brabb, march around the Elks Country Club and compete with all the major schools in the Big-Eight. Coach Brabb feels that this Spring, will be the "big one" for her women. There were only three seniors on the '79 team, and so hopes are high that this Spring when the grass turns green, and the days turn warm, the Central High Women's Golf Team will have their first really successful season representing the Maroon Giants. Golf is a life sport. What is learned on the links, when they are young, will leap over to maturity as they grow. So Good Luck to the Golf Team.

Giant Batmen

The varsity team started spring practice with high hopes and a talented team. The Giants were led by a group of determined seniors. The backbone to their strength was the size of the pitching staff. With seven strong pitchers, the Giants were never weak on the mound.

They started off the season with a 4-1 win over crosstown rival, Loy Norrix. The next two games were heartbreakers to the team. In both games, the Giants had the lead with two outs and nobody on base in the last inning. They lost both games due to costly errors.

Coach Signeski got the team back on its feet by having his Giants sweep the next thirteen straight. With a tired and weary team the Giants then lost three crucial games. They lost a Big-8 conference game and the State pre-District game. The powerful Giants struck again by outslugging Parchment 14-13 in the G-K final. At the end of the season the Giants were G-K champs and Big-8 co-champions with a 16-5 record.

Outstanding performances this year were displayed by many. Senior Bill Keep led the Giants in batting with a hefty .394 batting average. Bill moved to the twelfth position on the all-time batting list at K-Central. Senior Duane Dunbar was known as "steady eddie" in the field. Duane tied the record of most stolen bases in one season with 15 clean swipes. He also carried a big stick with a .306 batting average. Junior Rob Holland and senior Dave Knapp moved to second and third respectively on the all-time RBI list. Dave had 23 RBI's and 3 HR's and waved a big glove at 1st base. Rob showed his talent with 25 RBI's, 3 HR's, and a .333 batting average. Other strong hitters on the team were seniors Scott Szekley and Stacey Smith who displayed hustle, pride and leadership throughout the season. Junior Ken Hurtt was steady with the bat with a .317 batting average. Overall the Giants batted a tough .270.

MEN'S TENNIS

The Kalamazoo Central High Men's Tennis Team of 1979-80 is turning into one of the most powerful spring teams representing the school. There are ten juniors for the 1980 campaign, and with the fine 3rd place finish in the 1979 season, the team has great promise and strength for the 1980 season. The 1979 team finished second in the Greater Kalamazoo Regionals, a finish that Coach Black thought was next to impossible when the season began. The seniors were, of course, the backbone of the team and accounted for the six wins that were registered throughout the windy and rainy season. Nat Treloar, Steve Bosch, Steve Scott and Rob Brewer have all graduated leaving a host of newcomers to take their place. Among the new juniors that show great promise are Chris Robertson, Mike Prihoda, Jason Watson, Sean Bennett, Satish Hiremath, Paul Hsieth and Kunar Hiremath. Whatever happens, the 1980 team promises to do at least as well as the 1979 team. Let's hope the 1980 season has less rain and wind, and more sunshine so that the matches can be played in a less hectic fashion in the coming season. Good Luck to the Tennis Team of 1980.

Features

"Never Too Little To Forget" . . . the special parts of the school. In our features we explore in inside of the school: The Red Cross Blood Drive, the six minutes between classes, the prom, and other very special times that punctuate and mark the days and months that pass so fast here at Central. The features explore our relationship between the Faculty and us, and our place in the school, and our relationship to the community around us. The Features are the special parts of us that are little seen by the outside world, but essential to really knowing and caring about our high school.

This game of international Football better known as soccer is the sport of the future. With its international friendship and togetherness, soccer has continued to make grounds in this country.

Kalamazoo Central's soccer club is one of the best teams in the state. With their undefeated score in three years, the team has endeavored to put forth an effort to become #1.

Our Neighbors

One of the most fascinating things that happen to Central during the year is the coming of our visitors from other lands. They bring to us their culture, views and language. We are happy to have them, and we hope they enjoy themselves for the time they are here. Our neighbors come from many different countries. Here are some of them: Angelina Abak Pora from Nigeria. Amir M. Afiat from Iran. Marium Al Oboudi from Iraq. Janne Andren from Sweden. Mehrdad Bemanian from Iran. My Le Dang from Viet Nam. Shahrokh Farrokhi from Iran. Rainer Guentensperger from Switzerland. Sunita D. Jaglan from India. Tahmoares Kehyari from Iran. Ali Reza Khosravani from Iran. Markku Linnapuomi from Finland. Mastaneh Maybody from Iran. Saeed Mohseni-Tabrizi from Iran. Haifa Nada from Saudi Arabia. Khalad Nada from Saudi Arabia. Mehrdad Pachangi from Iran. Federico Sanchez from Venezuela. Asamau Udah from Nigeria. Hideki Yamada from Japan. Saeid Yazdani from Iran. and Hamid Yazkekhasti from Iran. We welcome all of our visitors this year, and hope their stay with us in the United States was memorable.

Good-Bye Doesn't Mean Forever

Kalamazoo Central's Senior Prom was held May 25, 1979 at Albert Hall, located on Nazareth College's campus. The prom was unique, being that a dinner by candle-light was served before the dance for the first time. Entertainment was provided by "The New Mall City Players." The theme chosen by the senior class was "Good-Bye Doesn't Mean Forever."

Creative Writing

Creative writing is a class in self-discovery and exploration. The students write from what they know, not what they don't know. They write each day and the goal is to define the self through the articulation of the language. Here are two examples:

"I thought you were different!"

In that classroom it was always dusk. Mrs. Allen would never let us turn on the lights. So we sat in twilight and worked our way through old spelling books which were growing black about the edges and smelled as if they had been wet once.

She was big on spelling, she always said it was the only important subject that didn't begin with an "r." Which confused me awfully and I always thought the math books had spelled "rithmatic" wrong.

Along with believing in the old-fashioned way of teaching, she believed in the old-fashioned discipline; a slap on your hand with a ruler, or for the worst cases, a little bit on the cane rod she kept under her desk. She was short but with that rod in her hand, she was a giant. She had legs that were thin and hard like steel rods and her skin was a pale grey. That is, all except for her face. Here she wore a thick, chalky powder which made her look like she had a false nose.

I was terrified that someday I would mess up and she'd punish me. So far I'd never been caught doing any of the things I did to keep up with my classmates; throwing paper wads, racing to the mile bin, and making faces at her. My friends got caught, but she would punish them but never me, although sometimes it seemed she looked straight at me when I threw something.

The day I got caught I had done everything the same as always, except when I threw a paper wad at my friend in the front row, it hit Mrs. Allen on the head.

Her head snapped up and I hoped for a moment that she would move so fast that her neck would break, but I had no luck. Her eyes reminded me of the hawk I had seen in a cage the last winter. I thought I was going to be sick. Then she saw it was me. In the deathlike silence of the classroom I heard her sharp intake of breath.

"Come here, young lady," she said and went into the hall, her legs moving like pistons.

She barely waited for the door to shut before she slapped me. The blow confused me and I never heard what she said next. Then she was crying, leaning against the wall. Her tears made small gullies in the powder on her face and made me think she was dissolving.

"I thought you were different," she sobbed, "different! But you're not. You're all the same! Get out, go away, leave me alone!"

I backed away and went to the office. The nurse sent me home and I remained sick for two days. When I went back to school our class had a new teacher. She threw out the old spelling books and let us make candles at Christmas. I never saw Mrs. Allen again.

"IN THE SPIRIT!"

The essence of Central sits in the stands cheering and yelling, screaming and supporting our guys and gals. Whether in the football games, the basketball games for even the swimming meets. The people behind the athletes burst the psychological support that is indispensable for victory.

There's fun too in screaming at the top of your lungs, sitting in the snow covered bleachers, chanting and rolling back and forth with our friends. The games are social as well as competitive. This total involvement makes up the spirit fabric of Central High School athletic and social life. So Cheer on . . .

Publications: "The Concern" "The Delphian"

The voices of Central High are the Concern and the Delphian. The Concern, our newspaper, is one of the best in Western Michigan. It takes strong journalistic stands on school matters, and is not afraid to express views that are controversial. The Concern changed its format this year to a smaller but more readable booklet publication, which has made the publication more accessible and easier to read. Film Magic is also a publication of the Journalism staff. In it are given the students creative efforts. It comes out once or twice each year. Through Journalism and these two publications, Central's writers have a chance to meet a public audience and have their efforts read and talked about, which is what Journalism is all about.

The other major publication is the Delphian Yearbook, a tradition that goes back over 117 years to the very beginnings of the school. The Delphian Staff begins their memory book in January and works on the book for one full year. By the end of the Junior year over one third of the book is already done, and the remainder of the book is completed in the fall of their Senior year. The Delphian's goal is to try to get at least one picture of each student into the yearbook, so that each student can feel that he has some small part in his school.

Both the yearbook staff and the journalism staffs try hard to legitimately reflect the concerns and experiences of student life that make up essence of Central High School.

REFLECTIONS

The mirrors of ourselves are seen each day in the lives of students doing their work. Expressions of thought are refractions of education and our experiences here at Central High School. If we look close at the mirror at the left, we will see in the moods of our friends, the expressions of ourselves. For we can only see ourselves through the mirror of others. What they see in us, is what we are and what we will be in the future. When we look at others, we look at ourselves.

THE BEAT GOES ON...

The American Red Cross comes to Central each year to obtain the most precious commodity in human existence . . . our blood. Central High supports the Red Cross each year with the highest blood contributions per capita of any high school in the area. For three straight years Central has been on top, and we plan to keep it that way.

Services for the American Red Cross such as the blood drive, the bread lift are just two examples of how Central High students serve their community for everyone. Hopefully the Red Cross hopes that the giving of blood will be a continuing service throughout our lives, so that when we need it in a time of trouble, it will be available for us too.

Creative Expression

Everyone has their own uniqueness, and it is expressed in different ways; their own way. Each person has their own "hidden talents" and many of the students at Kalamazoo Central are lucky enough to theirs are and put them to good use.

Individuality is important in keeping Kalamazoo Central's reputation of originality and creativity.

Whether its singing, dancing, acting, or weaving, these students are using these talents to the advantage of themselves and the pleasure of others.

CHANGING MOODS

High school life provokes different moods among students. A failed test, caught skipping, or a referral can bring grief and anger. While an "A," free time, or the thought of the weekend can unsurface relief and happiness. The moods are ever changing among the students. You get over a failed test. Maybe the weekend wasn't that great. Your teacher decides to dismiss the detention and give you another chance. Anything can happen to make you feel good or bad. Just look around and notice the changing moods.

Teachers and Students . . .

Together Doing Their Jobs

How teachers and students relate depends on the quality of people produced by the school. Without each other, the concept of school holds little value. The teacher's job is to make sure the students learn. The student's job is to learn, so they will be able to survive in the world after high school. Teachers and students have to work together in a positive way for anything to be accomplished.

Six Short Minutes

Six short, crazy minutes to escape from tests, homework and tension. Six short minutes to do all that cannot be done, because we don't see her during class. Six short minutes to explode from the tedium pretending to know all that educational information, we don't know and can't figure out. The sense of relief of just bursting out the door or the classroom is enough to give us a natural high. The six short minutes is the little treasure box of the day. In it we get to live and talk, and plan, and just rest our backs against the hall blocks and relax. Here's to the sweetest treasure in school . . . the six short minutes.

The hallway get-together with that special somebody is what you remember not the fact that you got carried away while talking, arrived late to class and got bawled out by the teacher. The first time he called you and you talked for hours, you can recall every word, you forgot that your little sister had been listening to the whole conversation and freely repeated every precious word to your parents. STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The Student Government is the backbone of the school. It is here that the Fall Homecoming is organized under the able leadership of Fred Colgren. It is here that the spirit of the school is organized to provide the dances and other social activities that make the school go. Charitable ventures, such as the Bread Lift and the Red Cross Blood Drive are set up by Student Government.

Here in the discussions and meetings of the Student Government the plans are laid for just about every successful student venture in the school. Without these students, Central would be a very boring place indeed. Just the organization of the Homecoming Pep Assembly takes hours and hours. The simplest contests and skits take time to set up.

Here then behind the scenes lies the core and essence of the spirit of Kalamazoo Central High.

"KCHS-TV on the Air"

"KCHS-TV" is on the air." Each morning throughout the school year, KCHS-TV presents its schoolwide news program to Central High through its closed circuit tv network. All the news of Central that's fit to speak is spoken. Students from Mr. Ettwein's TV and radio classes practice all the elements of television broadcasting. Every aspect of modern communications media is used in Central's advanced and highly operational broadcasting studio. The studio also has mobile tv cameras and video tape machines that record all the fast breaking news in the school as it happens. Many rooms in Central have tv receivers, which are tuned in during the 3rd hour announcements break of homeroom. Tapes are also made available to events that may have lasting value to the different departments in the school. Many of Mr. Ettwein's students plan to continue in communications at their colleges or universities after high school. KCHS-TV really contributes to Central, and we are happy to have them.

Fall Sports

"Never Too Little To Forget" . . . that when the leaves start to fall, the crunch of feet kicking footballs, can be heard clearly around the campus of Central High. The women's tennis team in their clean, white uniforms can be seen swinging diligently at yellow and green balls, and the warm days of the first classes, make the whole season delightful. For many of us the fall with its flaming red maples, the crowds cheering, the bright red band marching, carameled apples, and Homecoming festivities, all make life especially worthwhile. Whether it be Cross Country runners or swimmers splashing, nothing beats the Fall for excitement, and it's never too little to forget."

GIANT PACK IS BACK!!

Giant Football started slow in 1979 and accelerated into a very successful season. The twenty-eight seniors on the squad added power and depth, and provided Coach Long with a deeply satisfying season. Kalamazoo Central has a long tradition of powerful football teams and the 1979 team was no exception. The Defensive squad as especially noted by the Coach. The Defense cemented at least four critical games for the team. "Defense," "Defense" really means something in Kalamazoo Central Football Maroon Giants.

OF THE FUTURE

The Junior Varsity football team had an excellent season this fall, which harbors good things for the varsity football team next fall. The team put strong winning games together against Loy Norrix, Grand Rapids Central, and Portage Central. Coach Presley and Walker indicated that they really enjoyed working with their young men this year, and felt the real progress of the team was the strong togetherness and spirit of cooperation, which really helped mold a bunch of young men into a strong and powerful unit.

With the experience attained this fall, the JV's look forward to the new season next fall when they will wear the varsity uniforms of the maroon and white, and play on Friday evenings for Kalamazoo, Central High.

Womens J.V. Basketball

The Women's Junior Varsity Basketball team was coached by a Central Grad, Sue Schoolmaster. She said that she felt that her young squad will be ready to play varsity next year, and she hoped that the women had as much fun playing as she had coaching. The Junior Varsity is coming on. Look out 1980.

WOMANS VARSITY BASKETBALL

Kalamazoo Central's Women's Basketball Team has a long and strong tradition of being scrappy and determined year after year. This year was no exception. The women won five close games in the waning minutes, and worked harder throughout the season than any previous women's basketball team in the history of the school.

Jane Langeland and Kelly Rowekamp along with four other seniors all worked to make the team go and move as a team. Over all the team won over half their games and came near upsetting Loy Norrix in the Regionals. The nucleus for next year's team is there, and Coach Burke is looking forward to another successful season in 1980.

Men's

"The Giant Pack is Back" was no more apparent than in this year's performance by the Men's Cross Country team. In a conference that many feel is one of the toughest in the state. The team finished an excellent record place overall. Led by junior Mike Maher and senior Jon McCormick the Maroon Giant runners finished with a dual meet record of 6-3. Co-captain Andy Parent another outstanding senior in addition to McCormick and senior Joe Stegmen will be the only losses suffered through graduation in the top eight men. Returning to add strength to next year's team will be some excellent juniors led by Jason Watson, Paul Kehoe and Dave Hunt and sophomores Bill Techentin and Andy Hoyle. Both Coach Pedler and Coach Ray feel this team was much improved over previous teams and next year the potential exists to win it all.

(3)

The 1979 Women's Cross Country team started this year brand new. We had a new coach, Mr. Balcom and five girls who had never run on Central's team. Mr. Balcom might be new to women's cross country but isn't new to the sport of running as he is the asst. women's track coach. The team consisted of Molly Adams, Linda Bowman, Amelia Hanson, Sarah Humister and Doreen Visser. Molly Adams our captain and only senior gave the team a lot of spirit, with first place on our team and first place in some of our dual meets. Doreen Visser, a sophomore, having run cross country in junior high followed closely behind Molly with second spot on the team. Linda Bowman, a junior, being very new to the sport came out and gave all she had. Amelia Hanson, a sophomore, in spite of injuries ran hard and placed well in all our meets. Sarah Humiston, a sophomore, never having run before gave the team the extra body we needed. Our team lacked members this year but with the help of the returning girls and Coach Balcom our 1980 team should go all the way.

Pep, spirit and support are what the Cheerleaders do at Kalamazoo Central High Football Games. They provide guidance and cheers for the crowd and help give the football players a lift when they are down.

The Cheerleaders work hard on their mounts and cheers, varying them each season and bringing new ones to the student body at the pep rallies, assemblies and games. They lead the school song, and football in the fall wouldn't be the same without them. These young ladies really care about Central, and they are supportive in school and on the field. So Here's to the Cheerleaders — a long, and strong tradition, which we hope will go on for many years. Go Maroon Giants.

Women's Swimming

The Kalamazoo Central Women's Swimming Team this fall had one of the most successful winning seasons in a long time. Under two new spirited coaches and a large, enthusiastic squad of young ladies . . . swimming once again became competitive and fun. With only three seniors on the squad, next year's team promises to be even better. So Good Luck Ladies . . .

The Central High Golf team had a character building year in 1979. Although the win-loss record was not strong, the underclassmen pose real potential for the 1980 team. The team placed fourth out of eight teams in the Greater Kalamazoo tournament. The top golfer for the Giants was junior Jon Anderson with an 82 average. Outstanding seniors were Mike Nangle, Rick Doonan, and Paul Vermeulen. Coach Treloar waits with eagerness for the 1980 season. The win-loss record will be more important next season than character building.

Fall Sports Collage

Home-coming '79

Homecoming, one of the most exciting times in the fall. It's a week of exciting events and happenings. The first days are build up days of costumes, dress-up days, grub days, when usually normally dressed students go hysterical and a festival fever engulfs the school. On Wednesday the big bonfire is lit after a wild powder-puff game at the stadium. During the half time the eggs throws and the shopping cart races for class supremacy are held. Finally, on Friday night the big events of the football game, dance and half time festivities are ritualistically followed just as in past years. Still each year it is different. Each year the fellowship is more fun. Each year builds happy memories and the traditions of Central High march on.

Seniors Reign

For the third straight year the class of '80 was part of the winning powder puff team. As sophomores, the team won 16-14. As juniors, the team won 6-0. Finally, in their senior year, the class of '80 capped their high school playing career by winning 8-0. Lori Ann Ledbetter scored the touchdown by returning an undies punt. Sue Scott put on the finishing touch by running the two-point conversion. The defense, led by middle linebacker Kharen Warfield, keyed in on many of the undies offensive plays. Dan Saville acted as the head coach for the seniors with Brian Fitzgerald, Tom Freese, Mike Lanka, and Mark Miller as his assistants. The undies put up a hard fight, but once again the power of the class of '80 reigned.

HALFTIME HAPPENNINGS

The night of October 19th was cold and crisp. When the Homecoming halftime began the Court was slowly brought around the field by cars donated from a local dealership. After the lovely Court, came the Alumni from the years past, who delightfully got into the swing of things, by waving and throwing kisses to the crowd. Next came the winning Sophomore float that actually was man-powered. Then came the trucks filled with students from the clubs. Finally, the Court was introduced to the crowd, and the band joined in to conclude a fantastic half time to the Homecoming of 1979.

HOMECOMING GAME!

OUR HOMECOMING DANCE

October 19th ended with a victory dance for Kalamazoo Central. Even Holland's students were invited to help school spirit between the schools. The dance was the closing of our Homecoming celebration. Alumni from as far back as the 1940's came, and it was rather novel to see the old mingling with the new.

Refreshments of cake, pop and cookies were served between dances, and at the end there wasn't a cookie left. With the wild jams of Michael Jackson "Don't Stop Till You Get Enough" in the background, the students left at midnight, on a cold, crisp October night.

Winter Sports

Never Too Little to Forget . . . the coldness of winter made warm by the heat of athletes in competition in the deadest of seasons. The Winter Sports of Swimming, Basketball, Wrestling, Gymnastics and the coldest one of all . . . Hockey, heat up a cool season into a winter inferno. Few can forget the screaming of a close basketball game, or the intense heat of the swimming pool, while watching the aqua—Giants splash their way to victory. Few can forget the lovely grace and feverish energy of a women's gymnastics meet, or the heat and fever of men's wrestling. Winter may be cold outside, but inside Central High School . . . the heat goes on, and we, who participated, will never forget it.

Hoopmen on the Move!

The Men's Kalamazoo Central High Junior Varsity and Senior Varsity Basketball Teams of 1979-80 made strong showings throughout the year. Coaches Jackson and Gardner were very proud of their winning teams and of the winning season. Especially welcome was the fact that there will be returning veterans to spark the team in the 1980-1981 campaign. The momentum this year with victories over Loy Norrix, Portage Central and Battle Creek Lakeview make the signs for next season even better. Congratulations to the Basketball Teams for their fine year.

SWIMMERS EXCEL!

The Kalamazoo Central High Men's Swimming Team this year had personal excellence written all over it. The squad made solid progress in lowering their lifetime marks in each of their events. Leadership and solid work habits were exemplified by the team's fine seniors: Jim Schafer, Paul Ransom, Mike Schlack, Dave Johnson, and Jim Apple. Coaches Bennett and Tod were very happy with their team's accomplishments and look forward to another winning season in the fall of 1980. There will be 14 returning seniors, and four or five strong juniors moving up to the front rank status. Swimming is a tough sport, but one with many benefits, and this year's team, through their closeness and fun, succeeded in gaining many of them.

Grapplers Take Hold!

Coach Wroblewski's grapplers took their season over 500 this year, even without a heavyweight wrestler. The young team worked hard, and under the eye of a portable television camera were able to see their mistakes, and then correct them in competition. The team was lead by Scott Yates and Ken Hoff, Co-Captains of the squad. Considering the difficulties the team had this season, they did very well. Coach Wroblewski was very proud of the scrappiness and sheer courage. Congratulations to the Kalamazoo Central 1979-80 Men's Wrestling team.

The Icemen Cometh

The outstanding moment for the Hockey Team this year was the 4 to 2 upset over the Greater Kalamazoo Hockey leaders: Hackett High School. This victory buoyed up and made the season for the icemen. Otherwise the season was long and bleak. But Coach Lindsey's young team will be ready when the winter comes next year. Almost all of the skatemen are returning, and they're great. They will reverse their 2 and 10 record. Outstanding hockey players were Pete Prihoda, John Dahl, Janne Andren, Markku Linnupuomi, and Rainer Guetensperger were among the finest players on the Kalamazoo Central Squad.

GYMNASTICS

The 1979-80 Women's Gymnastics Team is under the direction of new coach Ann Meisling. Ann was once part of the Kalamazoo Kalisthenians who were coached by her father. The team is led by 3-year veteran gymnast Cherryl Gill with support from sophomores Peggy Davis and Eve Maher. The team's record, when this book went to press, was at 2-1. The team looks forward to their match against cross-town rival Loy Norrix where Coach Meisling participated during her high school years.

Winter Spirit

The 1980 Basketball Cheerleading squad is coached by Deborah Lockhart, a former K-Central student and cheerleader. There is only one squad of girls this year instead of a Jayvee and a Varsity due to budget cuts. The cheerleaders support the team, no matter how far they're ahead or behind in the score. Here's to our Basketball Cheerleaders — the backbone of the team.

The Seniors

The bonfire is the symbol that burns through our senior year. It represents our ongoing search through the darkness of our lives for some tangible meaning to our existance. The beginnings of finding our light to the future lie with our memories of Central High and our three years here. It is . . . never too little to forget . . . that we began our lives here, and will have the imprints of our teachers and education upon us, as we go on to college or the work which lies ahead of us. We learn as much from the little things, (our projects, our assignments) as we do from the big things, (our dates, our grades, our friendships). We, as seniors, leave Central High now, but we cannot be separated from the time we spent here. This place . . . will never be too little to forget.

Our Administration

"He who leads, walks behind," (so goes an old Chinese proverb), and so it is with the Administration of Kalamazoo Central High School. If everything goes smoothly for students and faculty, their quiet, effective leadership is doing the job.

Their low profile, careful attention to detail, plus their well organized administrative duties, allow the school to function with the least interruption and disruption. Those who administrate are problem-solvers.

Education can only be taught in an atmosphere where learning is fostered and nurtured. That is what the Administration of Central High tries to offer; a learning environment.

Mr. Richard Haw, our fine Principal, exemplifies effective, quiet, and efficient leadership. Mr. Young, Mr. Ply, and Mr. Pyle also carry out their duties with the same effective leadership. We are lucky to have them.

Our Patrons

Never too little to forget . . . that's our fathers and mothers who went to Central High and come back on Homecoming to have fun and remember when they went to Central. Never too little to forget . . . all those people in our community who buy ads in our yearbook, and support us in our school from behind the scenes. They mean a lot to us, because they support us and help us solve logistic problems necessary to put on our school programs. Money and expertise help, and our parents, patrons and advertisers see to it that we get that help. Thanks Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Saville, Mrs. Husted and another Central High graduate take part in the Homecoming Parade.

DELPHIAN STAFF

Well . . . We did it! The book chronicling the senior year of our life is finished. This is a special Delphian because it spans from the end of one decade to the beginning of another. In this yearbook, we close a part of our life to the Seventies and open a new section of it in the Eighties.

The 1980 Delphian Staff has taken ideas from past Delphians and modified them to fit the structure of this year's Delphian. With our written theme of "Never Too Little to Forget" and also a graphic theme, we have given this yearbook continuity. We close this publication on an upswing which we hope carries us through the years to come.

As seniors, this yearbook is our last "Hurrah." Even though we sigh with relief that the work is finally done, we are filled with a feeling of satisfaction over the publication we have created. We believe that this yearbook is symbolic of the Class of '80. When we look back in the years to come, we hope to find this Delphian a unique part of our senior year.

We would like to extend special thanks to Mr. Haw, our principal, Mr. Weir, our Taylor Yearbook representative, the faculty of Kalamazoo Central, and our fellow staff members. Gratitude is also expressed to our advisor, Mr. Bennett, who let us develop a yearbook, reflecting the Class of 1980, but whom was also there to keep our feet on the ground.
